

Bruno: Or Lessons of Fidelity, Patience, and Self-Denial Taught By a Dog (Classic Reprint)

The present volume is the first of a proposed monthly series of story books for the young. The publishers of the series, in view of the great improvements which have been made within a few years past in the means and appliances of the typographical art, and of the accumulation of their own facilities and resources, not only for the manufacture of such books in an attractive form, and the embellishment of them with every variety of illustration, but also for the circulation of them in the widest manner throughout the land, find that they are in a condition to make a monthly communication of this kind to a very large number of families, and under auspices far more favorable than would have been possible at any former period. They have accordingly resolved on undertaking the work, and they have intrusted to the writer of this notice the charge of preparing the volume. The books, though called story books, are not intended to be works of amusement merely to those who may receive them, but of substantial instruction. (Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and do not occur in the book.)
