

What To Do When You Get Shot: A Young Mans Survival Guide

What To Do When You Get Shot is an illustrated commentary on violence in America and how violence is spread around the world. It is written from the perspective of a six year old who lives in a poor community and is witness to violence on a daily basis. In the tradition of the recently deceased MAURICE SENDAK, helping children and parents deal with difficult topics, the timing of this project could not be better. It is our intention to help parents and teachers initiate a nonviolent conversation about the effects of violence on a neighborhood, a city and a country and how historically violence affects world society.
