

The Collected Letters of Thomas and Jane Welsh Carlyle, Vol. 32: October 1856-July 1857 (Collected Letters of Thomas & Jane Welsh Carlyle, Vol. 32)

The Collected Letters of Thomas and Jane Welsh Carlyle offer a window onto the lives of two of the Victorian worlds most accomplished, perceptive, and unusual inhabitants. Scottish writer and historian Thomas Carlyle and his wife, Jane Welsh Carlyle, attracted to them a circle of foreign exiles, radicals, feminists, revolutionaries, and major and minor writers from across Europe and the United States. The collection is regarded as one of the finest and most comprehensive literary archives of the nineteenth century. Volume 32 covers the period from October 1856 to July 1857. During this time, Jane is beset with a succession of illnesses, while Thomas prepares the first two books of his massive History of Frederick the Great for publication and labors on his publishers proposed new cheap edition of his works. The Indian mutiny, the bombardment of Canton, and a dissolution of the British Parliament also feature in this volume. In addition to its 168 richly annotated letters, many published here for the first time, volume 32 includes two appendixes: (1) advertisements in the Athenaeum for the cheap edition from December 1856 to December 1858 and (2) a transcription of Thomas Carlyles marginal comments on a borrowed copy of Elizabeth Barrett Brownings Aurora Leigh.
